OVERVIEW

Joseph Zeller, CPA, is a director of accounting and audit services at Anchin. Joseph is a member of the Firm's Construction Industry Group and has more than 25 years experience fulfilling the accounting, business, and financial needs of closely held contractors. Joe also holds the Certified Construction Industry Financial Professional (CCIFP) designation; this certification indicates his advanced level of knowledge and experience in construction financial management.

In addition to construction, Joe also serves clients in the real estate, pharmaceutical, textile & apparel, importing, manufacturing, retail, and professional services industries. Joe's clients range from aggressively growing companies to well-established companies. He has assisted many clients in mergers and acquisitions, sales of companies, and securing financing. He works closely with his clients and provides them with business consulting advice including cash flow management, budgeting, business expansion planning and line of business analysis.

He serves on the board of directors of the New Jersey Construction Financial Management Association (CFMA) and is an active member of the New Jersey Surety Association. Joe is also a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) and the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants (NYSSCPA) and frequently lectures to sureties, bankers, and other trade professionals in the construction industry.
